TIMELY FORECAST OF FAIR DEPARTMENTS

WHAT IS BEING ARRANGED FOR BESIDE AMUSEMENTS.

Expansion of Exhibition Features and New Live Stock Classes.

The fifth annual territorial fair is designed to be bigger and better than any former fair in all departments. Much has been printed about the racing program and there can be no question in the public mind that the races will be far more notable than those of former years, even though all have been notable and each year's program has been better than that of the preceding one. This article is to outline in a general way what is being done in other departments, to make them more attractive and more useful to the people than ever before.

The mineral department is under the superintendency of Colonel Epes Randolph of Tucson, who has left the active management of it to James C. Goodwin of Tempe as he did last year. Mr. Goodwin has gone about his work systematically, energetically and early. He has written to those interested in the mining industry in each of the counties and has received replies to most of them to the effect that they expect to send better and more comprehensive exhibits to the fair this year than ever before. He expects to leave at once on a trip to Superior and other Pinal county camps and probably on to Globe, in the interest of the mineral display, for Mr. Goodwin is himself a mining man and very much interested in seeing that that industry is well represented.

The horse and mule department of the exhibit will again be under the direction of W. W. Cook and in this department a notable departure will be made from the rules of the former shows, in the interest of a larger display of stock without a lowering of the standard. Heretofore exhibits in the coach and draft breeds have been limited to registered animals, most of which were stallions. It has been decided this year to admit cross bred or unregistered mares though no unregistered stallions will be admitted. The idea is that a larger horse show is desired and there are scores of fine mares in the valley, many of them well bred but unregistered, and some that look like thoroughbreds but are not. No encouragement will be given the breeding of poor stock by the use of unregistered stallions, but the grade of the stock in general cannot be rapidly elevated if only registered mares are used and until grade brood mares are recognized the general display of horses will be small. The unregistered stock of course will not compete with registered animals but will be entered as added lots. Mr. Cook left yesterday for his range and will be absent a couple of weeks but he has already made a good canvass of this county and done as much as possible elsewhere to encourage these added exhibits. He feels certain the horse and mule display this year will be both bigger and better than ever before and mean a great deal more than it ever did to the average farmer and horse breeder.

All that has been said of horses is equally true of cattle. Heretofore there have been shown some as fine cattle exhibits as could be seen anywhere but they were mostly confined to a few herds of registered cattle, the number of exhibits being limited because only here and there a farmer has a full registered herd, even though he may have some fine individuals or fine grade stock. The cattle department is under the superintendency of A. C. McQueen and it is proposed this year to admit cross bred heifers and cows in added lots just as the cross bred horses will be entered. It is believed this will be an inspiration to many farmers to show worthy cattle for which there was before no inducement. In fact almost every dairyman ought to have something worth while. There will be no discounting the registered stock but it will enable visitors to see what is being done in grading up the general average of cattle in the territory. The star feature of the cattle show this year will be cash prizes for herds of dairy cows not less than five in number. There will be two premiums, the first for $100 and the second for $50. These prizes were heretofore offered for range cattle but the range stockmen did not respond and the dairymen are to be given a chance at the money. Some of them may have use for it.

The fact that one of the fair commissioners this year is Hugh Campbell, a real sheep herder, has inspired the sheep growers to more than usual enthusiasm and the superintendent of the sheep and goat department, John Hennessey of Flagstaff, says he expects to make a better showing this year than ever before. J. C. Madersbach of this valley is looking after the sheep department for this valley and exhibits are promised of at least two breeds that have not been shown before, Cotswolds and Dorset Horns.

The poultry and pet stock department under C. B. Wood has always been a fine success. This year it will be bigger and better than ever and will include a bench show. Attractive prizes will be offered for sixty-two breeds of domestic dogs and fourteen breeds of foreign dogs. Most people did not know there were so many breeds in the world and possibly the most of that army of curs that haunt the streets of Phoenix at night in the closed season for dogs, all belong somewhere if they are only caught and sorted out. Anyhow there are a lot of good dogs in the country and the bench show is to be made a feature. A building for it will be erected alongside of the poultry buildings. There will also be a display of ostriches in a pen to be constructed between the two poultry buildings so the poultry and pet stock department this year will be one of the real sights of the fair. Concerning the chickens and ducks and geese, everybody knows that that is always a fine display. There are two entire buildings devoted to them and a better show is expected this year than ever.

The dairy department this year is also to be resurrected from its former inconspicuous place and made worth while. For the first time, cash prizes are to be offered for butter and cheese. There will also be prizes for the best specimens of milk and cream. Dr. Godfrey, the territorial health officer, is also arranging to conduct an exhibit that is being prepared by the United States department of agriculture, similar to those made in the larger cities for educational purposes.

The woman's department has always been a big feature of the exhibition hall. The superintendent, Mrs. J. H. McClintock, will be ready to receive entries next Monday at her home, though the exhibits will not be received until a week prior to the fair.

when quarters for that purpose will be opened in the Hotel Adams.

The Pacific Gas and Electric company will also offer a gas range again this year to Phoenix competitors only for the best essay or composition on the subject "Why Use Gas."

The educational department under Kink T. Moore, territorial superintendent, will be handled similarly to former methods but of course there is always the ambition for improvement, and it has never been a department that Arizona needs be ashamed of, having been a good advertisement of the Arizona schools every year.

The agricultural department will be under Professor Wilson of the experimental station as heretofore and he proposes to make it much bigger and better than ever before. He has added a number of new premiums, one line in particular being for eucalyptus. He expects good exhibits from Yuma and the upper Gila valley, while Verde valley may be depended upon to come down after the apple premiums. In this connection it is only fair to say that heretofore the little lonesome agricultural exhibits from Cochise, Apache, Yavapai and other mountain counties, have been entirely creditable and in some instances remarkable, when the limited amount of agriculture and the season's conditions are taken into account. There is no reason why any or all the counties in the territory should not get into the running on agricultural exhibits, even if the displays are not large or varied. Every county raises something creditable in some part of it and these facts are noted and taken into consideration by the visitors to the fair.

There will be a meeting of the Salt River Valley Watermelon Growers' Association at the Commercial parlors on Saturday, October 16, at 1:30 p. m. All members are urged to be present.

CHINA'S LAW OF NATIONALITY.

A recent Chinese newspaper states that the law of nationality, consisting of twenty-four articles, has been decided upon. By this law any person who has lived in China over ten years and is above twenty years of age, of good moral standing, being helpful to China, may be allowed to assume Chinese nationality, if asked for. Unless he has lived in China twenty years he will not be allowed to serve in the Grand Council, Imperial Household Department, or as a military official in any position above the fourth grade, neither can he become a member of Parliament nor of the Provisional Council. When one wishes to abandon his nationality as a Chinese he must first get the consent of the board concerned or he cannot lose his nationality. Only a person who has no official position or has not failed to pay taxes is allowed to abandon his nationality. When a Chinese woman marries a foreigner she will abanher Chinese nationality, and when a foreign woman marries a Chinese she will become Chinese. In either assuming or abandoning nationality the wife and children will follow the husband's nationality. A woman who is married is not allowed to change her nationality alone. Women who are divorced and persons who have abandoned Chinese nationality before the laws are enforced will be treated as Chinese so long as they live in and enjoy their rights in China.
